MAPFRE is a highly reliable business group that consistently strives to fulfill all its commitments. For many years, reliability has been one of our distinguishing attributes, enabling us to not only improve our reputation year after year but also strengthen our brand's presence globally.

We do what we say, and we do it with impeccable ethical behavior, a deep social commitment, and complete transparency. We also ensure that we communicate openly about what we do, always striving to maintain a strong and transparent relationship with all those who engage with us, especially during this time of accountability with our shareholders. We do this by fostering long-term, balanced relationships built on respect and trust with our employees, intermediaries, providers, and all other collaborators, as well as with society at large, to which we owe our role as a responsible corporate citizen.

2024 was the best year in our history, despite the complex geopolitical and economic environment. Our business model, based on geographical and product diversification, along with a well-defined and effectively executed strategy, has enabled this outstanding performance, allowing us to grow profitably.

2024 also marked the first year of implementation of our current Strategic Plan. Once again, we have delivered on what we promised. And we are particularly proud of the progress made in developing a sustainable business model within a diverse group like MAPFRE, which has a significant international presence and is committed to all stakeholders in every country where we operate. We are confident that in 2025, we'll exceed many of the goals and objectives we achieved in the year we've just left behind.

Our current Sustainability Plan 2024-2026 includes demanding and decisive commitments in social and environmental matters, with services and products aligned with them and a corporate governance structure that allows us to continue moving in the right direction. And these commitments are translated into actions.

Actions for the Planet
